Summer 2023

Like last year, Summer Rising will serve approximately 110,000 students in grades K-8, in collaboration with the Department of Youth and Community Development (DYCD). For high school students, we will continue to offer career-pathways programming, including DYCD's Summer Youth Employment Program (SYEP), along with opportunities for course-credit recovery.

For K-8 programs, Summer Rising will be planned and operated by school principals in partnership with DYCD-funded community-based partners. All programs will take place in person in New York City Public School buildings. K-8 enrollment will launch on April 17, and we are making improvements to ensure it is a more equitable and inclusive process. As in prior summers, students who are mandated to attend summer programming in June will be able to access a seat affiliated with their home school. More information on enrollment for schools and families will be shared soon at nyc.gov/SummerRising.

For high school programming, schools will have flexibility to design schedules that meet the needs of their school communities. High school programs for credit may be in-person or remote based on program area and community need.

Lithium-Ion Battery Safety

New York City Public Schools are committed to providing a safe and healthy environment for our school communities. We recognize that while Lithium-ion based batteries have become popular due to their favorable shapes, size configuration, recharging ability, and power-to-weight ratio for favored technology devices; without proper care or with damages they can overheat and burn aggressively causing bodily harm, serious injuries, and devastating property damage.

The New York City Fire Department has advised that lithium-ion battery fires have increased dramatically in New York City with severe consequences. This increase is due largely in part to the rise of E-bike and E-scooter utilization in our city.

Due to the increased use and visibility of lithium-ion batteries in schools, all school stakeholders must ensure that safety and precautionary measures are in place to uphold a safe learning environment for our students. Be advised of the following:

- Fire extinguishers do not work on lithium-ion batteries. In case of a fire, leave the area, close the door (if possible), and call 911.
- Damaged or unstable batteries disposal should be conferred with your local fire department.
- E-scooters and E-bikes must be parked outside and at least 6 feet from schools.
- Lithium-ion batteries are not to be stored or charged near school entrances and exits.
- Lithium-ion batteries must have a designated storage area with a door that closes.
- The charging of 5 or more lithium-ion batteries must have a dedicated space with a door that closes. Schools may store and charge the batteries in the same space. For example, laptop carts that have doors may be used both for charging and storage.
- Principals are to review NYC Fire Code Chapter 3, Section FC 309 with their school-based custodial engineer.

Updated COVID-19 Test Kit Distribution Guidance

COVID-19 test kits should now be distributed upon request for students and staff who are experiencing symptoms and/or have a known exposure to someone with COVID-19. This practice, beginning May 1, replaces the previous guidance of automatic distribution of four tests per month to each student and staff. Please note this information in this family letter (available in all DOE languages).

Schools should continue to encourage all students to remain up to date on all vaccinations and to wear masks in indoor settings, especially during respiratory virus season.

NYC Public Schools Logo Refresh

Working from the foundation of Chancellor Banks' Four Pillars, the DOE continues to put schools, which represent our core identity, at the center of the work. In order to better reflect the DOE's focus on schools and connection to families, the DOE has begun using "New York City Public Schools" in general communications and marketing.

2023 Kindergarten Offer Release

On April 4, families of students who applied online to begin kindergarten in the upcoming school year received an email notification of an offer that they will be able to accept or decline using their MySchools account, through May 5. Families who did not apply online will receive their offer letter in the mail by April 17.

New York State (NYS) Grades 3–8 ELA and Math Exams

The New York State (NYS) grades 3–8 English Language Arts (ELA) and math exams will be administered from April 19–20 and May 2–3, respectively.

Safety Access Installation

The DOE will begin to utilize an advanced system to allow for safer access into all school buildings. Installation, including door locks, buzzers, cameras, and a monitor for schools will be completed in phases, starting with lower grade school buildings this spring.

Chancellor David Banks Public Safety Briefing at City Hall

- Schools Chancellor David Banks, in announcing the plan during an April 7 public safety briefing at City Hall, said the rise in school shootings across America is just part of the reason why the city was moving to install the door-locking systems. "I see the issues that are happening with these mass shootings, where people just walk into the building and shoot the place up," Banks said. "That keeps me up at night." The process of installing the door-locking systems will take several months, Banks said.

By next spring, all of the city's roughly 1,850 public schools should have the door-locking systems, which will active and lock the front doors once school starts. “We certainly hope to have all of our schools outfitted with this new technology by the spring,” Banks said.

The contract for the devices’ installation was approved on Feb. 15 by the New York City Department of Education’s Panel for Educational Policy. The city originally installed the door-locking system in six schools across the city as part of a pilot program.

The system will give school safety agents the ability to see and communicate directly with visitors through a two-way camera and communication system from the main desk inside the school. Once the visitor’s business or meeting is confirmed, school safety agents can buzz the visitor in.

Symbrant Technologies, the Long Island-based contractor for the door-locking system, was chosen because the system answers the question of how the city’s first responders will have direct access when a potentially dangerous and unforeseen event occurs. This system allows police officers access through a code that will be provided to all precincts.

“This is when our alarms go off in our schools and there’s a check needed,” Rampersant said. “This way the police officers, first responders will have direct access to schools.”

Banks said the city’s school safety agents are currently being trained in the new “Safer Access” system. For example, if students are in danger outside of the school, school safety agents at the front door will be trained on how to respond to those situations.
